

Drastic Order Expected Soon On Steel Use

Ban On Non-Defense Projects Impending

ALBANY, N. Y.—(AP)—A total freeze June 1 on steel for non-defense construction, except projects on high-priority lists, is expected to be ordered soon by the federal government, it was learned today.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey reportedly has been advised informally by the U. S. Defense Mobilization board that the drastic order virtually will halt construction for 18 months after June 1 on most highways, college buildings, schools and similar facilities. Hospitals probably will be exempt.

The order may be effective only 30 days, and then be changed from month to month as the international situation changes, a reliable source here said.

The 18-month limit on such restriction will be based on the premise that war will not spread, he said.

"However, it is expected there will be steel enough for certain projects having top priorities," such as mental and other types of hospitals and highway maintenance work, he added.

Woman, 21, Held In Fatal Blaze

Just Meant To Scare Lover; Boy, 6, Killed

DETROIT—(AP)—A 21-year-old woman who admitted setting a rooming house fire to "scare" her lover faces murder or manslaughter charges because a little boy died in the blaze.

Detective Lt. Leslie Giddings said either of those charges, in addition to arson, would be placed against Mrs. Katherine Quick. He said the woman confessed tearfully last night that she tossed a cigarette on a pile of letters in the home of her lover, Donald James Sirois, early Thursday.

"I only wanted to scare Jimmy," Mrs. Quick sobbed. "I never meant to harm anybody."

The flames that rapidly engulfed the house took the life of six-year-old Travis Burson, Jr. Thirteen other persons escaped.

Mrs. Quick said she tried to get back into the burning house when she realized the youngster was still there, but police held her back.

"I got the idea for the fire when I saw a cigarette butt on the stairs of a house down the street, after Jimmy had thrown me out," the officer quoted her as saying.

"I went to the Sirois' house, lit a cigarette and threw it through the window of the front door."

"I left. It landed on a pile of letters on a table in the vestibule. I thought it would smoulder and scare them."

U. S. Army Firepower Increased 50 Percent

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army has given Congress statistics which show that the firepower of a U. S. division has increased 50 per cent and the strength 33 per cent since World War II.

It also said that in an overseas zone the proportion of United States combat troops to the troops which service and supply them is comparable to the ratio in the Russian army.

The agreement calls for a one-cent bonus payable every three months for each point over the 169.3 living cost index.

Congressmen Back Freezing But Say It Came Too Late

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congress members appeared pretty much agreed today that price-wage controls had to come but several of them felt they came too late.

"Every element of value was being destroyed," said Rep. Spence (D-Ky.) of the House banking committee. Not only the purchasing power of the wage dollar, but the savings of the people, and the defense costs of the government were being destroyed.

Rollback Impossible

Senator Caneheart (R-Ind.) said the action "comes just six months late." He was not surprised that the freeze order issued last night by the economic stabilization agency (ESA) did not call for a price rollback, he said, adding:

"It would be impossible to roll prices back at this point because they have soared so high it just isn't practicable."

Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) said in New York last night that the freeze "is probably necessary" but he expressed belief it will be ineffective unless we raise a sufficient amount in taxes to meet added military expenditures and hence balance the budget.

Otherwise, Douglas said: "We'll be forced to borrow from the banks. There will be a creation of billions of checkbook money and we will get inflation, and then all the price control in the world will not save us."

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) said, "they should have done something long ago—rolling back prices and wages to the middle of last year. It isn't very effective, after waiting for all those increases in wages and prices."

More Inflation Curbs Proposed

McCabe Says U. S. Can Afford Taxes

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Assessing that Americans can afford to pay "far greater taxes," the federal reserve board chairman put before Congress today a plea for quick enactment of higher taxes.

"Never has our economy been more prosperous," said Thomas P. McCabe. "Never have we been in a better position to absorb higher taxes without impairing that economy."

In his address before the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences last night, McCabe hinted also that "further restrictive action" can be expected on credit buying.

He said existing curbs on installment buying and mortgages might not be adequate to head off inflation.

McCabe, who formerly headed the Scott Paper Co. in Chester, Pa., warned Congress not to delay imposing new taxes.

"When I read that it may be the end of summer before a tax program can be enacted," McCabe said, "I think strongly we are wasting six or seven months we can ill afford to lose in the battle of inflation."

He said this nation may be in a garrison state "for years" and that it must start with a balanced budget and a sound fiscal program.

Allied Forces Land At Inchon, Kill 700 In Seoul Offensive

TOKYO.—(AP)—Gun-toting South Korean sailors drove ashore at Inchon in the cold grey dawn today and raided the port of Seoul for four hours.

To the east, allied tanks and troops drove through ankle deep snow within less than 13 air line miles of the old South Korean capital.

No Casualties

The tank column leaping off two allied corps of American, Turkish, British and South Korean foot soldiers thrust four and one-half miles north of Suwon, site of Korea's best airfield.

At its northernmost point of advance, the column was only 14 road miles from Seoul.

The South Korean commandos killed 40 Red Koreans at Inchon and captured two. They met no Chinese.

The raiders swarmed ashore under the guns of the American cruiser St. Paul, the Canadian destroyer Cayuga and the U. S. destroyer Hank.

The swift-striking raiders suffered no casualties.

The northward thrust along the main road to Seoul, "heartbreak highway," began Thursday morning. Two U. S. Eighth Army corps—the First and Ninth—jumped off in a limited offensive and recaptured Suwon and Kumyangjang.

A sneak attack at night

An A. P. field dispatch said the column was meeting only moderate resistance. Allied troops forged ahead along a 40 mile front.

"We have hit fairly good enemy positions but apparently have not yet run into their main line of resistance," a divisional officer said.

United Nations troops fought in the pre-dawn darkness Saturday with Red patrols that had sneaked back into Suwon. Guns flashed in the night but the town was reported cleared of Reds by daylight.

Allied warplanes and artillery pounded small pockets of Reds in dug-in hill positions.

"We're killing them right and left," a bearded regimental officer said. "The hills are full of them. You can catch these guys if you can catch them in the daytime."

A veteran sergeant chipped in: "They like to sneak around at night... They will be visiting us again tonight after we dig into those frozen holes."

Bayonets Take Hill

The Ninth Corps on the right flank ran head-on into two Red battalions near Inchon. Fighter bombers roared in as close as 100 yards in front of the battle line and allied artillery rocked the ground.

Friday, allied soldiers made the biggest bayonet charge of the Korean war, storming up hill 156 five miles south of the air base town Suwon.

When they finished taking the hill, they counted nearly 500 bodies of Reds sprawled in ankle-deep snow—victims of the flashing bayonets, planes and artillery.

Sixty Red defenders of the hill were taken prisoner.

Bugle-blowing Reds were repulsed Friday night six miles west of Suwon. Inside the war-wrecked town, Red infiltrators attacked with burp guns and small arms but were driven out.

Another 200 Reds were slain in the allied occupation of Kumyangjang, 11 miles southeast of Suwon. Navy Corsair planes helped the attackers put down stiff resistance from grenade-hurling Communists.

America Stands Pat To Brand Chinese Reds As Aggressors

LAKE SUCCESS—(AP)—The United States stood pat today on its demand for a quick United Nations vote condemning Communist Chinese aggression in Korea, despite a bewildering welter of new "peace plans."

Backed publicly by President Truman and both the House and Senate, the U. S. delegation said it would oppose any substantial changes in its resolution which, as now constituted, tags Red China an aggressor; asks the U. N. collective measures committee to consider the next step; and creates a three-man commission to seek ways of ending the Korean fighting and achieve U. N. aims in that country by peaceful means.

Both Canada and Israel offered new ideas yesterday designed to bridge the gap between this view and a 12-nation Arab-Asian plan for a seven-nation conference, including Red China, to work out a cease-fire and decide other Asian problems.

These are expected to be the subject of debate in the 60-nation political committee today if nothing else, this debate will delay any vote until after the week end.

Sponsors of the Arab-Asian plan held private consultations last evening and this morning to work out a way of adopting at least some of the proposals as formal amendments to their own resolution.

Canada's external affairs minister, Lester B. Pearson, made six suggestions for a compromise. These were:

1. A conference at either New Delhi or Lake Success within seven days. The United States, Britain, France, Red China, Russia, India and Egypt would be represented.

2. Immediate reference to a group composed of the U. S., Red China and the U. N. Korean commission of the task of arranging a cease-fire.

3. When these arrangements are completed, the 7-nation group would consider a peaceful solution of Korean problems including the withdrawal of foreign troops.

4. The group would then proceed to a discussion of other Far Eastern problems.

5. During these discussions other governments would be invited to take part in those sections directly concerning them.

6. The invitation should be transmitted to Peking and an answer requested within 48 hours.

Eisenhower Returns From His Tour Today

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returns to the United States today from his tour of inspection of western European defenses.

Coming by plane from Ottawa, the new supreme commander for the North Atlantic treaty powers is expected to stay at the U. S. military academy until next Wednesday when he is to report to President Truman.

Later Eisenhower is to meet with the cabinet and representatives of the North Atlantic treaty powers and on Thursday he will report to a joint meeting of Congress.

He is to make a radio report to the nation Friday night.

St. Lawrence Seaway Pushed In Washington

Truman Urges Early Start Of Hearings

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman is urging early hearings on legislation to get work started on the long debated St. Lawrence seaway project.

The project envisions developing the St. Lawrence river to permit a large volume of seagoing ships to travel to the Great Lakes; Mr. Truman has added to his previous endorsements the argument that it would contribute to national defense.

Chairman Buckley (D-NY) of the House Public Lands committee said after a White House conference yesterday he would start hearings by that committee "in the near future."

Mr. Truman called Buckley, Rep. Dondero (R-Mich.), ranking minority member of that committee, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) and Senator Wiley (R-Wis.), among others, to the conference with a view of expediting action.

The two representatives said Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson, who they said once opposed the project, is now for it.

"He sees it now as absolutely necessary for the defense buildup," Dondero said.

Hoodlums Balk In New Orleans

Vice Lords Clam Up For Crime Inquiry

By KEITH FULLER

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—New Orleans vice and gambling lords refused to answer more questions than the hoodlums of all other cities investigated, Sen. Estes Kefauver says.

The chairman of the Senate crime investigating committee made that dry observation at the end of a two-day probe here.

Before ending the second 16-hour session last night, Kefauver promised some of the witnesses who "clammed up" on his questioning he would seek a contempt citation for their refusals.

By name he called Carlos Marcello, Greta, La., based vice lord and associate of Frank Costello, "Dandy" Phil Kastel, controlling owner of the Beverly Country Club in which Costello and Marcello have part ownership, and J. J. Fogarty, baling boss of New Orleans' only racing wire service, as three he would recommend the whole committee cite for contempt. There will be others, the senator said.

The U. S. district courtroom, where the hearing was conducted, was filled with lawyers, witnesses and spectators as Kefauver made his summing up statement.

"It should be noted here we've had more refusals to answer questions in New Orleans than all of the other hearings together," he said.

Rationing Not Likely; Labor Files Protest

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government last night ordered an immediate freeze of prices and wages.

Wages were stabilized at rates in effect last Thursday midnight, prices at their highest levels during the period of Dec. 19, 1950 to Jan. 25, 1951.

Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said that rationing is not planned in the near future and maybe not at all.

The long-expected price and wage freeze is designed as a temporary dam against inflation, to be maintained until permanent ceiling formulas can be drawn up.

Stop-Gap Order Left Open For Future Changes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government's new stabilization order at a glance:

It freezes all wages as of midnight last Thursday, and almost all prices at their highest levels during the period from last Dec. 19 to Jan. 25.

It is applicable immediately.

It is designed to hold back rising prices and wages while government officials work out ceiling formulas aimed at staving off dangerous inflation.

For prices, it specifically prohibited buying or selling "in the regular course of business or trade" and commodity or service at a price higher than that charged during the Dec. 19-Jan. 25 period—regardless of any contract or other obligation.

For wages, it prohibits paying or receiving of wages higher than those in effect last Thursday. New employees must be paid no more than the Jan. 25 rate for the "jobs for which they were hired." Overtime, vacation and holiday, pay, pensions, benefits, etc., also must be held at the level in effect Jan. 25.

Both were apparently drawn up with an eye to future adjustment—either up or down as conditions dictate.

Violations are punishable by fines up to $10,000, one year in prison, or both.

In a dramatic and turbulent setting, nearly exhausted officials gave out the news of the freezes piecemeal. The process lasted from 6 p. m. until nearly one o'clock this morning.

The price freeze does not apply to all prices. A long list of items, including many foods, will still have leeway to rise.

But most prices were frozen at the highest level of the period from Dec. 19 through Jan. 25—day before yesterday. Since very few things have dropped in price during that period, the general effect is to freeze Jan. 25 prices.

Board Under Pressure

Wages and salaries were simply frozen as of Jan. 25, and no exemptions were listed in the order.

Thus, the wage board was under frightful pressure for speed.

Officials believe that the faster the board completes its general wage policy, the better chance of keeping labor-management peace. Board Chairman Cyrus S. Ching told reporters, "now we'll be forced to act as quickly as possible."

Ching announced the wage freeze to the press but he was careful to point out that it was signed by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston who handed him the order just ten minutes before the announcement was made. DiSalle's and Ching's agencies are technically branches of Johnston's Economic Stabilization Agency (ESA) and they are subject to his policy decisions.

The price freeze is only a stop-gap, too, and will melt gradually away as soon as separate orders can be prepared for various kinds of goods.

Influenza Outbreak No Cause For Alarm

The Michigan department of health has reviewed the current influenza situation and reports that at the present time there is no cause for alarm in Michigan.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said the situation is being carefully watched, and that if there is a change, the people will be immediately advised.

Reports by telephone from Dr. Francis and from Dr. Downey, health officer at Liverpool, England, indicate that the disease there, while extensive, is not unduly severe, Doctor Heustis said. So far the deaths have been mostly in the aged and debilitated, the health commissioner at Lansing said.

Although immunization of certain groups may be advisable, at present we are not recommending mass vaccination of people in the state of Michigan, Doctor Heustis said.

The current influenza outbreak was studied with Dr. Alex Langmuir, epidemiologist of the U. S. Public Health service, and with Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., epidemiologist at the school of public health, University of Michigan and chairman of the armed services influenza commission.

General recommendations for prevention of disease issued by the department of health apply in this case as well, the health commissioner advised.

Keep away from people who are sick, take care of your general health, avoid overexertion, get plenty of rest, and eat well balanced meals, the department urged. Go to bed and call a doctor if you feel sick, and stay away from others until you are well again, Doctor Heustis cautions.

The plan, as now being discussed, could make the income tax quite simple to collect and, in the words of one insistently anonymous lawmaker, "not very heavy on the individual taxpayer."

These sponsors are talking of a tax hitched to the federal income tax. Thus, a taxpayer would simply pick up the same gross income figure from his federal income tax report, possibly the same deductions and pay a millage tax on the net.

They are also considering giving state taxpayers a substantial basic deduction, possibly half of their income at the lower levels, before the tax must be figured.

Thus, one informant said, a man with a $6,000 income would be assessed about half of one per cent on $3,000, or $15.

The income tax idea is attractive to some groups, also, because they think the law could be left "open" at one end to help the counties pull themselves out of their own fiscal morass.

By this they mean that counties could easily add another mill or so to the state tax and pull in additional income easily.

Not Good Politics

The principal obstacle right now, of course, is the political impact of a state income tax. No one is anxious to be the sponsor and every one wants to have gotten ready to plug his ears against the din which presumably would be raised by Williams.

The people have several times rejected proposals to amend the constitution to permit a graduated income tax, admittedly a more popular levy than a uniform tax which hits rich and poor alike.

The proponents of the state income tax are arguing that the "graduation factor" as it affects a man's income already is well taken-

Outlook For State Uniform Income Tax Studied In Lansing

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—(P)—Very quietly, legislative fiscal experts are studying the possibility of a uniform income tax for Michigan.

It would have to be a uniform, or flat, income tax because a quirk in the state's 1908 constitution forbids a graduated income tax such as the federal government and some states impose.

Right now they are talking about a tax of approximately half of one per cent on each person's or corporation's income, estimating that would raise around $45,000,000 a year.

Reports are that several legislators have been on the verge of presenting an income tax bill to the 1951 session, but it has been pulled back for further study.

Simple To Collect

Big business apparently would give the idea a helpful shove if it gets a chance, preferring that approach to the state's mounting deficits than Governor Williams' corporation profits tax or the variety of other tax suggestions now before the legislature.

The plan, as now being discussed, could make the income tax quite simple to collect and, in the words of one insistently anonymous lawmaker, "not very heavy on the individual taxpayer."

These sponsors are talking of a tax hitched to the federal income tax. Thus, a taxpayer would simply pick up the same gross income figure from his federal income tax report, possibly the same deductions and pay a millage tax on the net.

en care of in the federal income tax and that a flat state tax would not be as unjust as it first appears. Nothing may come of all this undercurrent discussion, especially because of the political angles, but it is fascinating some of the men who are faced with raising more money, with the legislature's well-bolstered opposition to a corporation profits tax, and with their growing dislike of more nuisance taxes.

Savageau Deaths Were Accidental

Search For Cause Will Be Continued

The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Savageau, former Escanaba residents, whose bodies were found in the Savageau home at Prairie Village, Kan., were listed as accidental this week by Sheriff L. A. Billings Jr., of Mission, Kan.

The Johnson county officer has closed his investigation on the basis of circumstantial evidence.

The sheriff said that he had learned from Dr. Victor Buhler, pathologist, that the exact cause of the deaths had not been found in medical examinations, but that there was no reason to believe that anything other than an accident was the cause. An official report by the pathologist has not been filed yet.

The 53-year-old salesman and his wife, also 53, were found by neighbors and Johnson county patrolmen Dec. 19. They had not been seen since Dec. 15. Examination of bodies that night by Dr. J. A. Knopp, then coroner, and his successor, Dr. David S. Long, opened a medical mystery.

Belongings In — Circumstantial evidence has proved beyond a doubt that both deaths were accidental," the Johnson county sheriff said. "Preliminary medical examinations have failed to show the direct cause of death. This is due to the time element that passed between the time they died and the time when they were found," Billings said.

"The examination has ruled out any and all thought as to murder; and as for suicide, this also can be ruled out," Sheriff Billings said.

The sheriff pointed out that the personal belongings of Savageau, money, rings, pen and pencil and watch, were in normal order, and that there were no marks on the house or furniture to indicate violence. Medical examinations proved that neither deceased person had any wounds which were not caused by accident," Sheriff Billings reported to the Mission, Kan., newspaper.

Many Tests Made — Sheriff Billings said he was told by Coroner Buhler that no poisons had been found in the medical examinations. He added that no poisons had been found at the home.

Doctor Long, who said his investigation is not complete, reported that he expected to receive Doctor Buhler's report in a few days. The new Johnson county coroner was called into the case the night the bodies were found.

"Everything that has been obtained to examine — for microscopic study, chemical tests and medical tests — has been examined," Doctor Long has reported.

The new coroner for Johnson county has reported that although no specific poison has been found by the pathologist, Doctor Buhler is of the opinion the deaths were caused by a poison of some kind, accidentally administered. He explained that some natural poisonous substance might be fatal under certain conditions, and that there were no prepared poisons found in the home.

The coroner said the case will not be closed definitely after he receives the pathologist's report. He hopes that some additional information may be discovered, pinning down the exact cause.

Mrs. Reino Niemela gave a repeat lesson on cake decorating. The lesson was given earlier but because of the storm few were able to be present.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 8 with Mrs. Waino Hill, Mrs. Wilho Kaukola and Mrs. Tom Luomanni as hostesses. Mrs. Walter Linjala and Mrs. Osmo Aalto were chosen for the next school on furniture refinishing.

The club decided to have each member take scraps of material to the next meeting for the purpose of making a quilt which will be sold to provide funds for needed equipment. The quilt project is aside from the regular club program.

Three Families Run Andersonville Farm At Cassopolis, Mich.

CASSOPOLIS, Mich. —(AP) — For proof that people can live together, even in these nervous times, take a look at "Andersonville."

It's really not a village. It's just a big farm where mint and vegetables are grown and 18 head of cattle are maintained.

But "Andersonville" is a true community, where only Andersons live, and where decisions, profits, troubles and dreams are shared alike.

Three families take part in the kitchen-table conferences that are held regularly to plot affairs of the 340-acre farm. There are Russell Anderson and his wife, Florence; brother Oliver and his wife Bonita, and Mrs. Rose Anderson, widow of another brother, and her young son, Richard.

Widow Keeps Books — Oliver reports on the crops. Russell gives the marketing picture and the widow Anderson, who keeps the books, gives a financial report.

"Nothing is bought, even if it is only an automobile tire, without consulting the entire group," Oliver explains.

It's all part of a dream shared a generation ago by the brothers' parents. The Cass county farm was only 134 acres when they bought it, but the Andersons hoped that some day each of the three sons could have his own home on the property.

Fulfillment of that ambition began when the eldest son, Milo, 20 quarts and a garbage disposal.

Delta Teacher Bonus Studied

Discussed At Rural School Meeting

Adjustment of teacher salaries to meet cost of living increases and other problems of school financing were discussed last night at a meeting of the Delta county Rural School Board Members' association held at the Kipling school.

Walter VandeWeghe of Kipling, president of the association, presided at the meeting attended by about 50 school board members and superintendents.

It was reported that boards of some school districts have already taken action to make cost of living adjustments in teachers' salaries. Boards of other districts are considering such action.

Payment of bonuses or adjustments in salary is predicated upon the districts receiving anticipated increases in state aid. School board members and superintendents have been informed by the department of public instruction that additional estimated state aid may go up to $10 per school membership child, compared to $3 last year. The increase is expected because of additional primary money and more sales tax diversion revenue.

Also discussed at the meeting is the problem of financing the school lunch program, on which reimbursement to the schools was cut effective Jan. 1. Local contributions, larger local appropriations, or an increase in the price of the meal to the child was held possible answers to the problem.

Supt. John A. Lemmer of Escanaba reported to the rural school board members on the crowding in the ungraded room at Escanaba, attended by some township children, and said hiring of an additional teacher may be necessary. The rural school board members will visit special rooms in Escanaba city schools at 1 p. m. Monday, Feb. 5.

Hagie Quarnstrom, Delta school superintendent, reported on proposed legislation affecting the school districts of the state.

Returns to Korea

Cpl. Elroy G. Derocher of Bark River, Mich., now fighting with the Third Infantry division in Korea, recently returned to his unit after spending a five-day leave in Japan.

Corporal Derocher was among the first group of 200 enlisted men and officers of the division to take part in the overall plan of sending U. S. troops in Korea to Japan for rest and recuperation. The troops were flown from Korea to airfields in Japan.

Trucks and buses met incoming combat troops and took them to a processing station, where they had their first real bath in weeks, were given a complete new clothing outfit, and new chevrons and patches for uniforms.

They were given partial pay, if requested, the division public information office states. After processing they were given train tickets to rest centers.

At the end of their leave, they were flown back to Korea. Corporal Derocher is assigned to Company "F", in the 7th Infantry regiment.

Bus May Take 'Scooter' Run

Escanaba-Iron River Train Quits Monday

IRON RIVER, Mich.—Frank Butts, manager of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Transit Lines, has applied to the Michigan Public Service Commission for permission to inaugurate a bus service next Tuesday that will replace the North Western passenger train providing connection with the Peninsula 400 at Powers.

The train leaving here at 6:30 a. m. and returning at 12:20 a. m. will make its last run Monday. The C&NW won its fight at the supreme court level for the abandonment of the train.

Butts said yesterday he would appreciate the support of the Iron River business and civic interests in his effort to establish the bus service that will operate on virtually the same schedule as the steam train.

Parallel Route — He said he had not yet worked out a fully satisfactory arrangement with the C&NW for reimbursement out of fares that would, according to Butts plan, be collected by C&NW ticket agents at towns along the line.

One detail that was an obstacle to satisfaction for Butts was the fact that the North Western's fare from Iron Mountain to Green Bay via Powers was the same as the Milwaukee road's fare covering a more direct route between the two cities. This made the Powers leg of the trip a small one financially.

cially for through ticket revenue. At any rate, Butts proposed to the MPSC and was promised approval without delay on a plan that would have his bus leave Iron River in the morning and travel via Crystal Falls, Alpha, Florence, Iron Mountain, Norway, Vulcan, Loretta and Waukegan to Powers, connecting with the southbound 400. The bus would then return to Iron Mountain for the evening, transporting passengers then to points along the route to Iron River formerly traveled by the late arriving train.

Via Highway — Butts said he had made two trips to Chicago to confer with North Western officials, and he had not yet obtained a satisfactory assurance of a fair share of the ticket revenue on through tickets.

The Butts bus would not serve Stambaugh, Caspian, Pentoga and Stager as the train did, however, because it would head directly east from Iron River on US-2.

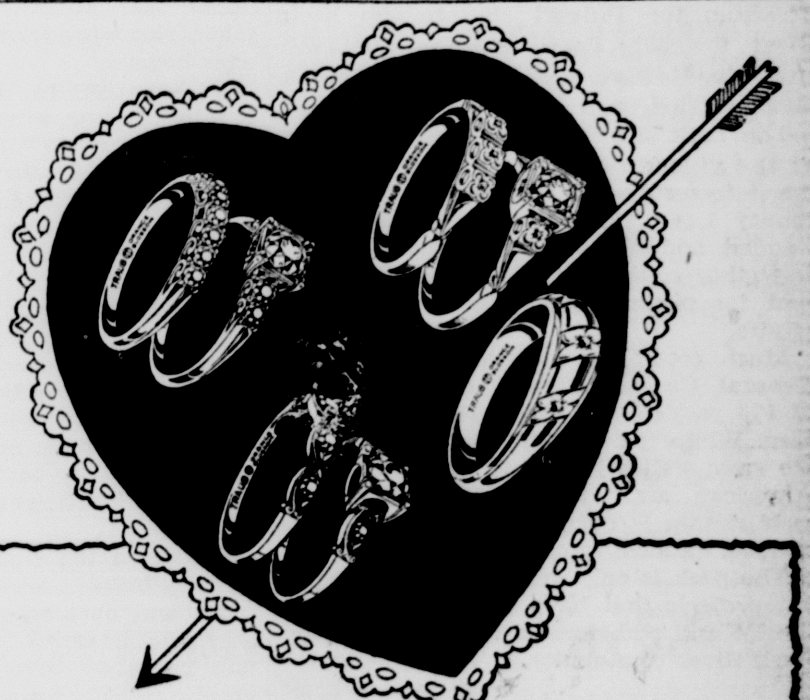

Butts said he thought that bus run could be more comfortable and satisfactory to passengers who formerly relied on the train.

The Iron Mountain-Kingsford Transit Lines operate urban and interurban service in their cities, with regular runs daily to Norway, Niagara and Vulcan from Iron Mountain-Kingsford.

Unrestricted Legislative Session Every Year is Needed in Michigan

ACTION to modernize constitutional provisions for legislative sessions in Michigan will undoubtedly be taken at the present session of the state legislature, after which the issue will be presented to the voters of the state for decision.

The constitution now provides for biennial regular sessions of the legislature. In the off year, legislative sessions are subject to call by the governor who has authority to determine the legislative agenda for special sessions.

The constitution was drafted at a time when transportation conditions were vastly different than they are today. There was very little need then for annual sessions of the state legislature. Today the problems confronting the state are much more varied and certainly more urgent. It is important for the well-being of the state that the legislature meets in annual sessions, not hobbled by the whims of the governor.

In modernizing the constitutional provisions for legislative sessions, it is important that the job be done right. The proposal for limited sessions in the off years, confined to fiscal and so-called emergency problems, is a half-measure that only will invite more troubles in the future. It should be discarded in favor of an unlimited, full-dress session every year.

The voters of Michigan will approve by a decisive vote a constitutional revision to modernize the outmoded legislative restrictions that now exist. The futility of the special legislative session last year conclusively showed the need for such a revision.

Bark River Will Have Public Recreation Area

TRANSFER of a five-acre tract of land from the Pulaski club to the Bark River township board recently was the first step toward the establishment of a much-needed park in that community.

The park site is located one mile west of the village on Highway U. S. 2-41, at the intersection of the Delta-Menominee county line. Four of the five acres are wooded, and with the installation of tables and other equipment it should be an ideal spot for picnics and other community affairs.

Much credit for the project is due the General Casimir Pulaski club, composed of 175 residents of the Bark River-Harris area. While the organization is named for the great Polish hero who fought with the American army in the Revolution, its membership is open to anyone regardless of race, nationality or religion.

The park is only one of several important projects that have been sponsored by the Pulaski club for the betterment of the Bark River community.

National Advertisers Prefer Newspapers

MORE national advertising dollars were spent in newspapers last year than in any other advertising medium. It was the second consecutive year that newspapers led the national advertising field.

Newspapers have virtually always led the local advertising field and by a very substantial margin over all other types of advertising mediums. Until recently, however, national magazines drew a heavier percentage of national advertising dollars than newspapers, with radio also cutting heavily into the total.

National advertisers have learned that the best results for their advertising dollars are obtained in newspapers because newspapers are closer to the market than any other type of advertising medium. Virtually every American reads one or more newspapers every day—and reads them thoroughly and carefully.

Nearly a half billion dollars was invested in newspaper advertising by national advertisers last year. That is a record of which the newspapers are justly proud.

Purifying The Exhaust Will Save Lives

THE family bus may emit a different odor soon. According to Eugene Houdry, a petroleum scientist and inventor, automobiles need no longer emit dangerous carbon monoxide fumes. After years of study Houdry has perfected a "catalytic exhaust" designed to change poisonous carbon monoxide gas to beneficial carbon dioxide.

No longer will it be necessary to drive around in sub-zero weather with windows down, wary of leaky floor boards. The driver who likes to take off in an aura of smoke will be unable to leave pedestrians wallowing in a choking cloud of gaseous poison.

The catalyst, made mainly of platinum, is for both leaded and unleaded gasolines. Combined with other elements, it is mixed with the exhaust to form harmless odorless vapors.

What's the world coming to? Next they will probably add perfume to gasoline, so an odor pleasing to the nostrils will permeate the atmosphere when a jalopy takes on fuel.

Those Marks

Comes the time you should redecorate the rooms within your house, and you listen to the planning of your ever-loving spouse, you agree it is desirable to brighten up the walls, and to give another coat of paint to woodwork in the halls. But you suddenly become aware that all around the place, are some blemishes and marks you are reluctant to erase.

There beside the hallway entrance, where some paper new you've planned, is the smudgy little imprint of a youngster's careless hand. You recall, when first you saw it, you were very much displeased, but when Sister smiled regretfully you quickly were appeased. Farther down the hall, you notice, are some bigger fingerprints, and the thought of how your Sister's grown can really make you wince.

Why, those aging walls, you realize, are records of the past, and each blemish is a memory you know will always last. They revive so many incidents of which you like to think, and when decorators come to work, your heart will likely sink. They may cover up those fingerprints, by chubby hands designed, but you'll cherish them forever in the treasures of your mind.

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The benches in Washington's U. S. district court are hard and cushionless. Their backs are straight and dig into your spine. After a week your bones ache—a week of sitting in court listening to testimony, argument, rebuttal, testimony that you are a "cuttlefish exuding inky filth over everyone." The jury goes out. You wait, wondering. A juror opens the door. No, he only wants a pack of cigarettes. . . . At the swank dinner parties in Northwest Washington they take odds for and against Pearson. "This will fold him up," boasts one dowager. "He'll have to sell his house, his car, and everything else to pay Fred Hower that $350,000." "Yeah, he'll have to go back to milking cows." "Pearson's never lost a libel suit, but this time he's cooked." . . . So ran the dinner-table conversation during the libel suit of Pearson vs. the former attorney general of California.

Libel suits are part of the hazards of the newspaper and radio business. No newspaper or newspaperman likes them, but no newspaper or newspaperman with any courage can avoid them. If you are going to expose inefficiency or irregularity in public office you have to stand the risk of abuse and libel suits. And there is only one way to handle a libel suit when you know you are right—battle it out through the American system of a judge and jury.

Toughest case I ever battled out was a libel suit brought by Congressman Martin Sweeney of Cleveland whom I described as the "congressional spokesman for Father Coughlin." He sued in 70 different jurisdictions—the biggest chain libel suit in the history of American journalism. After losing 35 cases Sweeney got tired and quit. Somebody else, incidentally, was financing his operations as a means of putting this column out of business.

There were also some interesting backstage manipulators behind the recent libel suit of Attorney General Fred Hower vs. Pearson.

JUDICIAL CRITICISM

Chapter I probably goes back 15 years to a book written by Bob Allen and me called the "Nine Old Men." That book described how whims of fate on the supreme court sometimes influenced American history.

One such whim of fate delayed the minimum wage act from becoming constitutional in the United States for two decades. In 1921 the U. S. court of appeals had upheld the minimum wage act for the District of Columbia as constitutional only because Justice Charles H. Robb had fallen from his horse and was not sitting.

Later Justice Robb recovered, demanded a rehearing, and thus delayed action on the minimum wage act for two years—during which time three liberal justices resigned from the supreme court. As a result of Justice Robb's rehearing maneuver, therefore, the supreme court held the minimum wage act unconstitutional, and the United States was without this important legislation for two more decades.

GRANDCHILDREN CAUSE TROUBLE

Chapter II probably results from the fact that my daughter moved to California and presented me with grandchildren, the oldest named for me. Naturally I visited California as often as possible.

In California any observer could see that its new, war - won population had made it the happy hunting ground for hoodlums and the big gamblers. It was also obvious that those in charge of law enforcement were lax; and in reporting on this situation in a series of columns and broadcasts in 1948 I stated that the chief law-enforcement officer, Attorney General Hower, when a candidate for that office in 1946 had accepted twelve one-hundred-dollar bills in protection money passed on to him from a well-known Long Beach gambler.

Chapter III came several months later, when Fred Hower sued. But before he did so several things happened. One was that he came in for serious criticism by the California crime commission whose alert counsel, Warren Olney, pointed the finger at various cases where the attorney general's office was apparently close to the gamblers.

In addition, one of Hower's assistants, Wiley Cadell, tried to bribe Sheriff Beverly Broadus of Mendocino county in an attempt to set up slot-machine protection with payoffs allegedly to the attorney general's office. Sheriff Broadus arrested Cadell, and he is now in San Quentin.

Kansas City: Who said, "You can't make a silk purse from a sow's ear"?—H.

Answer: The first version was George Herbert's (1593-1633): "Of a pig's tail you can never make a good shaft." The modern version was doubtless popularized by John Wolcott, in "Lord B. and His Lords": "You cannot make, my Lord, I fear A velvet purse of a sow's ear."

Bellingham: For our seventh grade English class, please give us the correct pronunciation of "bouquet."—Romeo 210.

Answer: In America, two pronunciations are recognized: boo-KAY and boe-KAY; but whether you say "boo-" or "boe-", keep the accent on the second syllable. Avoid "BOE-kay."

Q. Is it correct to speak of spiders as insects?—T. M. B.

A. Strictly speaking, no. Insects are flies, bees, wasps, etc., whose bodies appear to be almost divided. Insect is from the insecure, "to cut in."

Q. Will you please explain how the bobolink got its peculiar name—because it bobs up and down?—Mrs. A. W. A.

A. Sorry, no. Bobolink is a corruption of Bob Lincoln, the name given the bird because its call was thought to sound like "Bob Lincoln."

'Hark, Did You Hear Someone Calling Me?'

Wilson's 14-Point Speech in 1918 Brought Quick World War I End

By HERBERT HOLLANDER

Experts on both sides of the world employed in the battle of psychological warfare that goes on unceasingly 24 hours a day in the greatest ideological struggle of all time are still looking for a weapon which packs the lethal punch of a single speech delivered in Washington 33 years ago on January 8, 1918.

Belatedly, Uncle Sam is pouring millions into the fight to tell the peoples of the world the truth—to get the facts about what is happening to readers and listeners behind the iron curtain.

At the same time, acting upon their experience with psychological warfare during World War II, when its immense potency in many situations was recognized and impressively exploited, defense authorities within the very recent past have acted to give this activity a much larger and permanent place in present and future operations.

But notwithstanding all of the talent and effort being put into the war of ideas, both here and abroad, no one has yet come up with so spectacularly successful a "guided missile" in the war of words as did President Woodrow Wilson in his famous 14 Points Speech.

The term psychological warfare had not been invented then, and President Wilson could not have known the full impact his speech was to have—but that it proved to have the devastating power of at least 20 divisions of fighting men is acknowledged by top military leaders today.

Everyone, probably, has heard of this speech; few, however, know the circumstances surrounding its inception and delivery, facts which never have had a more timely and direct interest than right now.

In this connection, the Wilson speech contrasts sharply with another Presidential statement which also became a prime factor in the war of words and ideas which had such tremendous influence a quarter of a century later.

Roosevelt Talk Backfired

Reference is made to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "unconditional surrender" statement during World War II. The experts, both on our side and on the enemy's, are pretty well agreed that, as thoroughly exploited by Nazi Propaganda Chief Joseph Goebbels, this off-hand remark served to stiffen German resistance, both at home and at the front, by an immeasurable degree.

Whereas Wilson's 14 Points speech had a profound effect in breaking German resistance in World War I, F.D.R.'s statement, in the opinion of most unprejudiced and competent observers, had exactly the opposite result. In each case, however, the vital role of words in war was graphically demonstrated.

In his speech, President Wilson voiced the hope for a just and permanent peace, proclaimed the end of the "day of conquest and aggrandizement" and of selfish "secret covenants" and called for the establishment of an association of nations to maintain world peace.

The speech was made before a joint session of Congress, with every seat on the floor occupied and the galleries crowded. One of the Senators named to escort the President to the rostrum was Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts who, ironically, was to become the leader in the fight to prevent American participation in the League of Nations. His grandson, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., takes a contrary view, has been an ardent United Nations supporter.

In January, 1918, the Russians were meeting in the separate peace conference at Brest-Litovsk with the German and Austrian representatives. George Creel, director of the American Committee on Public Information, had received from the committee's St. Petersburg representative, Edgar Sisson, a cable urgently requesting President Wilson to "re-state the anti-imperialistic war aims and democratic peace requisites of America, thousand words or less, short, almost placard paragraphs, short sentences." Sisson went on to say that if the President would make such a pronouncement, he could "get it fed into Germany in great quantities in German translation and utilize Russian translation potentially in army and everywhere."

Just five days later President Wilson made his electrifying 14 Points address to the joint session.

In the hushed House of Representatives chamber, President Wilson began his speech, touching upon the Russian break-up, which was to be the prelude to the present Soviet tyranny. Then he went on and as he spoke it became evident that the address was to be one of extraordinary importance.

No Secret Understanding

"It will be our wish and purpose that the processes of peace, when they are begun, shall be absolutely open and that they shall involve and permit henceforth no secret understanding of any kind," the President declared.

"The day of conquest and aggrandizement is gone by; so is also the day of secret covenants entered into in the interest of particular governments and likely at some unlooked-for moment to upset the peace of the world. It is set the peace of the world. It is this happy fact, now clear to the view of public men whose thoughts do not still linger in an age that is dead and gone, which makes it possible for every nation whose purposes are consistent with justice and the peace of the world to avow now or at any other time the objects it has in view."

Just 33 years have passed since those words were so earnestly spoken.

Wilson continued: "We entered this war because violations of right had occurred which touched us to the quick and made the life of our own people impossible unless they were corrected and the world secured once and for all against their recurrence. What we demand in this war, therefore, is nothing peculiar to ourselves.

"It is that the world be made fit and safe to live in; and particularly that it be safe for every peace-loving nation which, like our own, wishes to live its own life, determine its own institutions, be assured of justice and fair dealing by the other peoples of the world as against force and selfish aggression.

Appealed for Justice

"All the peoples of the world are in effect partners in this interest, and for our own part we see very clearly that unless justice be done to others it will not be done to us. The programme, the only possible programme, as we see it, is this:

The President then enunciated the 14 Points which, briefly, were as follows: Open diplomacy; freedom of the seas; removal of trade barriers; reduction of armaments; adjustment of colonial aims in the interests of the populations concerned; equitable treatment for Russia; restoration of Belgium; restoration of Alsace and Lorraine to France to right the wrong of 1870; adjustment of Italian frontiers; more autonomy for the peoples comprising the Austro-Hungarian Empire; restoration of Rumania and Serbia; an independent Poland; reorganization of Turkey; and the establishment of an association of nations to maintain world peace.

There was widespread approval of the speech, in this country, although there already were rumblings of that opposition which was to culminate in the defeat of the League plan by the Senators termed by Wilson as "a little group of wilful men."

Abroad the Allied statesmen hailed the speech publicly; and privately made reservations which presaged another defeat for Wilson at Versailles.

But the address served the purpose which prompted it in the mind of the Committee on Public Information; namely, to cut the ground from under the imperialist regimes.

On October 5, through Switzerland, Wilson was asked to end the war in accord with "the general ideas cherished by the new German Government and with it the overwhelming majority of their people."

Later Prince Max said frankly he had not believed Wilson would be able to live up to his pledges, but felt the opportunity to embarrass the President should not be overlooked.

By early November it became plain that Germany must accept to avoid collapse at home and rout at the front. On November 11 the armistice was signed, the Kaiser was in Holland, and the ill-fated first German republic was on its troubled way.

At the peace conference at Versailles a few, but only a few, of the 14 Points were salvaged. Wilson himself saw finally that the high hopes of January 8 were being crushed, and that he alone among the men with whom he was dealing sincerely believed in the exalted idealism of the 14 Points. But he compromised, taking what he could, believing that the League eventually would resolve the difficulties.

Thirty-three years later the fight remains to be won, but Wilson's speech stands as a landmark, its like still elusive 33 years after.

ALL THE NEWS—Above the entrance to the Escanaba Daily Press building is a sign surmounted by the world globe, and across it are the words "All The News."

Readers of the newspaper little know of the news-gathering organization required to give them the latest developments in Korea, the national news from Washington, D. C., international politics from the United Nations, the uneasy news from Berlin—or the unleashed fury of Moslem riots in Singapore.

Readers may be interested in the story behind the Associated Press and its worldwide news coverage. As the name indicates it is an association of newspaper members, including the Daily Press, contributing toward the gathering and dissemination of news; and financing a far-flung staff of reporters in AP bureaus around the world.

Some of those reporters, veteran newspapermen, come from the Upper Peninsula—but in this column we are concerned with the story of one. . . .

WHERE TROUBLE IS—The AP reporter will be found wherever news is in the making.

Since 1941 six AP war correspondents have lost their lives. Often these men are not young, and sometimes they die heroically. Such was the death of William R. Moore on a Korean battlefield last July, who died while helping a wounded lieutenant.

It is not of Moore that we intend to write, but of Tom Masterson, native of Gladstone, who escaped death only by a seeming miracle in Singapore, where he was AP bureau chief since 1948.

THE MOSLEM MOBS—Tom is the son of Mrs. Emily Masterson of 1212 Dakota avenue, Gladstone. He is married and his wife and daughter live in Fond du Lac.

After working on newspapers in Wisconsin, Tom, a graduate of Gladstone high school and Notre Dame, joined the AP staff at Detroit in 1942. In 1946-47 he was in Shanghai and Peiping, was captured and held hostage for a time by Chinese Communists in Manchuria.

Then December, 1950, and Singapore. Under the direction of Bureau Chief Masterson, AP reporter Larry Allen filed his story:

"Singapore (AP) Dec. 10 — British troops with bayonets moved into the riot - torn streets tonight to battle fanatical mobs of Moslems—"

NIGHT OF TERROR—The Moslems were stirred to frenzy by the court fight of a Dutch mother to obtain custody of her child from a Malay nurse, a Moslem. The mother was white—and Christian.

A few hours after Larry Allen filed his story, both he and Masterson were seriously injured by the mob. Here is the story of the incident as told by The AP World:

"They were attacked and the bureau car burned as they sought first-hand information supplementing what they had already gotten by telephone. Both escaped death only by luck.

"Things went foggy for Masterson when a club knocked him to his knees. He tried to get up but couldn't move his right leg. His hip was broken. One pants leg was burned off when the mob threw him back in the burning car."

RESCUE AND THE NEWS — Masterson was rescued by an Indian friend who pulled him from the burning car and got him into a cab over the protests of the terrified driver.

Meanwhile Allen, clubbed almost insensibly, managed to escape the mob and fled to a Chinese residence and then over the roof tops. Fortunately, he fell through an air vent and landed a story below in the tenement home of another Chinese family, whom he bribed to hide him. The mob howled outside but did not come in.

The following day AP reporter A. L. McIntyre reviewed the tense Singapore situation and in the last paragraph of his dispatch noted in the factual phrasing of newspaperdom:

"Two Associated Press correspondents . . . were injured when a mob attacked and burned their car last night. Hospital authorities said neither was in a critical condition."

Today Masterson and Allen are recovering in a Singapore hospital. Masterson is encased in a plaster cast from chest to toes. Allen has a badly lashed face and scalp.

WAIFS OF WAR --- Bewildered Korean Children Are Pitiful Flotsam of War in Tragic Mass Flight

India Menaced By New Famine

Nehru Asks Grain Grant From U. S.

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—India is celebrating the second anniversary of her independence day. Actually India has been independent of British rule for five years, but it was only last year that the anniversary was established on Jan. 26, which was the date in 1930 when the Congress party first adopted a resolution of independence.

It comes at a time when the world is sorely troubled and the shadow of a third and more terrible conflict hangs heavy everywhere. But that shadow is especially dark in Asia and its darkness helps to explain one of the most baffling and complicated leaders of our time—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Fears World War
The fear of another global conflict more destructive and disintegrating than the last one is, I am convinced, what motivates Nehru today. That is the reason he goes to such extremes in trying to bring the Communist Chinese around to a cease fire in Korea.

Those extremes appear to most Americans to be the rank kind of appeasement. They seem to ask the United States to buckle to a hostile power that has inflicted a grievous and humiliating attack on an American army.

It is here that one can see the making of a larger tragedy in Asia. Nehru, the irresistible force prepared to go to any lengths to preserve the peace, is meeting head-on the immovable object of opinion in congress and the United States on Communist China. In the resulting smash the long-term interests not so much of Nehru and his government but of the Indian people will be lost sight of.

Famine in India
Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut made an eloquent and moving speech the other day in which he talked about the need to reach peoples rather than governments. He was talking about the Russian people in particular. But what he said applies with equal force to India.

A famine is developing in India. Nehru has pocketed his pride—his great pride, the pride of a rebel-aristocrat who has won independence after a long and heroic struggle—to ask for help from the United States. India wants to get 2,000,000 tons of grain either at a price considerably under the market or as a grant.

Reserves of wheat in this country are in the opinion of most experts sufficiently large to make such a gift possible. The cost would be approximately $2,000,000. But, of course, such action would require congressional approval. Only a determined optimist could believe that Congress would in the present climate approve such a step.

Food Ration Cut
The state department understands this very well. Yet, because the condition of hunger is so threatening, a request is being prepared that will probably be included in a one-package foreign aid bill.

In India's cities where most of the population is dependent on rationing the ration has been cut from 12 ounces of food grains a day to nine. Dieticians estimate that 24 ounces are necessary to sustain a workingman. The legal price has been raised by 15 percent and on the black market the cost of rice and wheat is anywhere from 100 to 200 percent above the legal rate, causing bitter discontent and resentment.

SLAVE POPULATION
At the time of the first United States census in 1790, one out of every eight persons was a slave, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Indicated horsepower of an engine is the total power produced; brake horsepower is that available for useful work; and rated horsepower is that available in safe operating limits.

Plan Expansion At Tobin Mine

Monongahela Property Will Be Tapped

IRON RIVER, Mich.—Preparations for resumption of mining at the Monongahela property in Crystal Falls township southwest of the county seat are in evidence this week.

It is known that negotiations have been in progress between the Republic Steel Corp. and the M. A. Hanna company toward an agreement by which the Republic firm would be enabled to mine ore from the Monongahela which adjoins the Republic Steel company's Tobin mine on the west.

Republic steel officials referred inquiries about the agreement to the Hanna company, explaining the announcement would have to come from the Hanna firm. S. E. Quayle, general superintendent of Hanna's Michigan mines, was out of the city yesterday. Quayle had stated last week that he had not been informed about whether negotiations were actually completed. Republic Steel officials did not deny the report that the transaction had gone through.

Hire New Men
But there were plain indications that an expansion of operations was in prospect at the Tobin where the known ore supply is near exhaustion. Work is in progress at the neighboring Monongahela engine house and shaft.

The Tobin mine last week stepped up its working schedule to a full six days per week, having previously been operating on a five-day-week. And it was reliably reported that the Republic Steel company was hiring 50 or 60 new men at the Tobin.

Idle 25 Years
The Monongahela mine was operated about 25 years ago by the Hanna company. It was a small operation and mining was conducted on two levels. Neighboring to the south is the Carpenter mine, also operated by Hanna at the same time. Both mines have been idle for many years.

Mining Monongahela ore through the Tobin and through the mine's own shaft by Republic Steel will substantially lengthen the life expectancy of the Tobin where exhaustion of the ore body has been known to impend for several years.

Progress Made Against Polio

Control May Be Near, O'Connor Reports

"Somewhere in the future lies the day when the hand of science will thrust itself between the deadly polio virus and the human body—and some scientists feel that day is not far off," according to Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

In connection with the national March of Dimes drive, O'Connor recently outlined the progress that has been made in polio research. More than $13,000,000 in March of Dimes contributions and grants have underwritten research in nearly a hundred laboratories across the nation.

"When we set out to fight polio in the laboratory we had to start virtually from scratch. Poliomyelitis had a well-earned reputation as a 'mysterious' disease. Polio was the most baffling of all virus diseases," O'Connor said. Research so far discloses that

America Bans Russ Crabmeat

Slave Labor Violates U. S. Tariff Law

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Reports of slave labor in Soviet Russia have caused the first United States import ban against a Soviet product since the two countries established diplomatic relations in 1933.

The treasury department yesterday prohibited imports of Russian crabmeat on the grounds it is produced by "forced, convict and indentured labor." U. S. tariff law forbids import of anything produced by such means.

The order was signed by Customs Commissioner Frank Dow and approved by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder.

Like other Russian commercial activities, crabmeat production is a government-operated monopoly. In March, 1949 the United States asked for United Nations investigation of charges that vast numbers of Soviet citizens were held in forced labor camps. In July of that year the British delegation to the U. N. economic and social council produced documents which the British, claimed, showed that 10,000,000 Russians were slave laborers.

A British request that investigators be allowed to look into the charges, in Russia, was turned down by the Soviets.

State department officials said the action was not an "economic sanction," simply an application of the tariff law. Officials did not say what proof they had that crabmeat, in particular, was produced by forced, convict or indentured labor. There was no indication the ban will be extended to other Soviet products soon.

Only Diplomacy Can Win Korean Conflict Now, Says Hal Boyle

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Hal Boyle, back after six months of covering Korea's war fronts, said yesterday the allies have lost the war militarily and that "the solution will come by diplomacy and not by force of arms."

Most American soldiers, the Associated Press columnist said, believe the Chinese Reds can drive the United Nations army out of Korea—if willing to pay a bloody price.

Boyle, in an interview, said allied officers and soldiers generally were agreed that heavy reinforcements would be needed to meet any determined Communist drive. He noted that fresh troops were not in prospect.

The columnist said the GIs' morale was basically good, but was being hurt by apparent indecision on Korean military policy.

Boyle said the current Red withdrawal probably is the result of a political agreement, but could mean the Communists were preparing an all-out offensive.

Miners' Pay Raise Delayed; Coal Price Increase Held Up

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The new wage freeze may delay pay increases scheduled to go into effect Feb. 1 for 425,000 coal miners. And presumably the companion price freeze would hold up action on proposed boosts in coal prices.

Cyrus S. Ching, chairman of the wage stabilization board, said last night he had not had time to study the freeze order issued by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

He agreed with a reporter, however, that the miners apparently cannot receive their wage increase by Feb. 1 unless the wage board brings out a formula by that date permitting it.

The hard coal industry agreed only yesterday to a $1.60 a day wage increase for 75,000 Pennsylvania anthracite miners. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers had negotiated an identical one a week ago for 350,000 members in the soft coal industry.

Woman Physician At Monroe Jailed In Narcotics Case

DETROIT — (AP) — Dr. Vivian Mae McCartney, 49-year-old woman physician from Monroe, must serve two years in federal prison on a charge of using patients' names on prescriptions to get narcotics for herself.

She was sentenced here yesterday by Federal Judge Arthur A. Koscinski. Dr. McCartney pleaded guilty last month.

Previously she served 60 days in the Monroe county jail for failing to report the death of an illegitimate child born in her office.

At that time her license to practice was suspended.

Gopher Sextet Beats Spartans

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — The University of Minnesota hockey team skated to its first home victory of the season last night over Michigan State College, 9-3.

Minnesota's Gordy Watters performed the hat trick for the second time this season with three goals and one assist. The contest was marred by 18 penalties, including ten on the Gophers.

Gopher goalie Larry Ross held the Spartans scoreless for the first 29 minutes. Then Michigan State's leading scorer, Bill Blair, flipped in one.

It was Minnesota's fourth win of the season while losing 11. Michigan State evened its season record at three wins and three losses.

Atom Blast Tested At Las Vegas Base

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The atomic energy commission said today that "one of the periodic tests" of atomic explosions was held today at the air force bombing range near Las Vegas, Nev.

A spokesman for the AEC would not add any details.

He was asked about reports that an atomic burst was seen in the Las Vegas area.

Beyond saying it was "one of the periodic tests" he would not elaborate.

He did recall, however, that it was announced on Jan. 11 that such tests would be held. The commission was authorized to use the air force facilities for the trials.

More than 100 players received votes in the poll, but only Ott and Foxx received the necessary 170 or more number of votes. Ott received 197 and Foxx 179.

Ben Hogan III; Harbert Leads

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — The big gun of the Phoenix open, Ben Hogan, was silent and sidelined today and the man in charge of the situation going into the third round of the $10,000 tournament was Michigan's long hitting Chick Harbert.

A sudden strike of intestinal influenza put Hogan out of the chance to win the event for the third time.

Harbert, former Ryder cup player from Northville, and a veteran of 11 years around the pro circuit, added a 67 to his first round 66 and at 133, led the way into today's third round with a two stroke edge on his nearest challengers, Lloyd Mangrum and Lawson Little.

Two Motorists Are Fined For Leaving Scene Of Accidents

Two Delta County motorists were ticketed yesterday by city police for leaving the scene of accidents, and were arraigned in justice court this morning.

Elof W. Johnson of Route One, Escanaba, was fined $10 and court costs of $5 for leaving an accident scene, and $5 fine and costs for failure to have an operator's license.

Johnson was the driver of a car which collided with an auto driven by Elmer Nicholson of 512 North 20th street at 8:46 p. m., Friday at the First avenue north and 12th street intersection. Bonnie Nicholson, who was a passenger in the car, suffered a cut lip in the collision.

Wilfred C. Richer, will appear in justice court at 2 p. m., Monday for arraignment on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He was ordered in court this morning to make provisions for restitution to Sadie Minor of Rapid River. Richer hit a parked car operated by Miss Minor, in the 1100 block of Ludington street Friday afternoon.

Gavilan Has Easy Time With Young

NEW YORK — (AP) — Kid Gavilan took aim at the welterweight title with his Cuban bolo punch today after his victory over middleweight Paddy Young of New York's Greenwich village last night.

"If Ray Robinson steps down," said Angel Lopez, Gavilan's manager, "we'll claim the title."

Gavilan used his bolo to good effect, piling up a big early lead with a flashy start that bewildered Paddy. As the fight wore on, Young began to dig his hook into The Kid's body. But not often enough. When he switched to the head in the late rounds, Gavilan went into a half-crouch and weave to make him miss.

The real hit of the night was Chico Vejar, 19-year-old high school senior from Stamford, Conn., who won his 23rd straight with his 16th knockout.

Iowa Players Are Reinstated

IOWA CITY, Ia. — (AP) — Two University of Iowa basketball players, suspended after they delivered some parlay cards to a Davenport, Ia., tavern, have been reinstated on the team.

However, the two athletes, Herold (Skip) Green and Fred Ruck, face a year of "disciplinary probation" at the university.

Dean of Students L. Dale Faunce said last night the two students "apparently have not been in violation of the law concerning parlay cards," but have been "guilty of very poor judgment."

Green was to be married today in Davenport.

Dean Faunce said that during the probationary period if the "conduct of either of these students is other than exemplary and comes into question before the dean of students, further disciplinary action may be taken including possible dismissal from the university."

Crew Saves Belding Boy, 8, From River; Buys Him New Sled

BELDING, Mich. — (AP) — Tug-boat crew saved 8-year-old Lawrence Belding from the icy waters of Flat River yesterday. The ice cracked, plunging the boy into the water.

Atop a roof 100 yards away Clyde Burns, 24, construction job worker, saw Lawrence's peril.

Burns leaped 15 feet to the ground and sprinted to the river. He stripped off his coat and went into the icy water.

He helped Lawrence stay above water until fellow workers could reach them both.

Lawrence's sled was lost. The construction crew took up a collection to buy him a new one.

Pontiac Quadruplets Lose Their Home, But Will Pay For Another

PONTIAC, Mich. — (AP) — The 16-day-old Rosebush quadruplets have lost their home. But that's not too serious. They'll have another.

What's more, they'll help to pay for it themselves.

A bank foreclosed yesterday on the quads' home at Oakwood near here. Kenneth Rosebush, 36, their stonemason father, was $400 behind in payments. Foreclosure was twice postponed because of the quads' birth.

At neighboring Oxford, the Chamber of Commerce has taken an option on a $10,500 home. It hopes the family will move in.

Meanwhile the quads already have $6,000 of their own. It comes from commercial sources and will be applied to a new home.

The quads, two boys and two girls, are still in hospital incubators.

Bradley Nipped By Oklahoma Ags

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Oklahoma Aggies used their unhurried passing game plus a tight defense to outlast Bradley 49-48 at Peoria, Ill., last night in overtime.

Keith Smith, with three seconds left, dropped in the winning one-pointer, only score of the five-minute extra period.

The victory was the most important of the campaign for the Aggies, who have a season mark of 17-1 and a 5-0 record in the Missouri Valley league.

Bradley (18-3), dropped to third in the league with 4-2, behind St. Louis (4-1).

Long Island university (16-0) continued its all-winning streak against mediocre San Francisco 58-52 in an unexpectedly tough contest.

Recaptured Flint Convict Confesses Several Burglaries

FLINT, Mich. — (AP) — A 27-year-old convict who fled the Cassidy Lake prison camp last August admitted several new burglaries when he was recaptured near here last night.

Police said Jack Ryno, of Flint, told them that during recent months he robbed a hardware store in Olivet and a Potteryville establishment and broke into several Indiana buildings.

Ryno, who was sentenced in 1947 to serve five to 15 years on a burglary charge, was retaken after police laid an elaborate trap.

Officers had a tip that the fugitive would stop at a designated spot to pick up a 16-year-old youth said by police to have been on parole from probate court.

Fourteen Flint and state police cars converged a short distance away. When Ryno appeared and got the youth into his car, they gave chase. One shot was fired wide of the speeding car.

Then Ryno stopped and tried to escape on foot while his companion remained in the car.

Labor Chiefs Hostile Toward Pay Freeze, Cite Inequalities

(By The Associated Press)

Initial labor leader reaction to the new wage-price freeze was overwhelmingly hostile.

In Miami Beach, Fla., President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said:

"Prices have been steadily rising while wages have been pretty much standing still. Unless we are accorded the opportunity to work out inequities, the freeze is unjust to labor."

In Chicago, Walter Reuther, head of the CIO United Auto Workers, said the freeze "in no way affects the escalator clauses of our contracts."

Reuther promised fuller comment after further study of the federal order.

Marriage Rate Booming Again

Wedding March Is Now Martial Music

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Marriages in the United States are on the rise. And, since the scent of orange blossoms isn't any stronger these days, the only explanation for the wedding bear market is the Korean War.

The survey by NEA Service of eight key American cities—New York, Boston, Atlanta, Cleveland, Chicago, Dallas, San Francisco and Los Angeles—showed the total marriage licenses issued in 1950 was higher than in 1949.

Even more striking is that most cities noted that the first six months of 1950—the pre-war months—were slower than usual. Business picked up after the shooting began, and the last six months wiped out the deficit.

Bearing out NEA's own study is a survey made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., which showed a nation-wide five per cent increase in 1950.

The Korean War began in late June. It takes something extraordinary for any other month to beat out June as a month of marriages.

In August, 1950, the war began to look like it might lead to something worse in New York, Cleveland and Los Angeles, for example, August marriages topped June easily. September also edged ahead of June in New York.

Most city clerks look for the trend to continue for a while, then slack off. It won't stop because the youngsters don't want to get married. It'll stop for the simple reason we're running out of eligible young men and women.

At present, young couples are investing in wedding rings for three main reasons: either it's a perfectly routine thing, or they've stepped up wedding plans because of the prospect of separation, or—to be blunt about it—some guy wants to get out of the draft.

But the crop of young people is getting smaller. The ones reaching marriageable age now are the ones born in the bleakest depression years. Our birth rate in those years was very low. So the prospect is for an imminent drop in the wedding rate.

This situation is not unique with this year. War always brings a rash of marriages, at least in the initial stages. Later, when the troops are overseas, marriages drop off and then boom again when they are demobilized.

Congressmen Hope To Delay Draft Of 18-Year-Old Boys

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House armed services committee reportedly is considering extending the draft to some World War II veterans and newly-weds in the 19-to-26 age range.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) told a dirt lay hearing yesterday it is hard for him to understand why a youth who served only 90 days in World War II should be given automatic deferment while another who didn't serve may be drafted for 21 months.

Earlier Vinson had said the committee would look into the possibility of adding to the potential military manpower pool young men who have married since fighting started in Korea.

Married men and veterans are not now being drafted. The committee, confronted with a defense department proposal for drafting of 18-year-olds, was reportedly reluctant to dip into this age group, immediately. It called on the department to bring in suggestions Monday on tightening the law to cut down deferments.

Peekaboo Peek Dies, Leaves Whisky For Picked Palbearers

ATHENS, Ga. — (AP) — They're going to chip "Jan. 26, 1951" on a long marble slab for old "Peekaboo" Peek.

And his palbearers are going to split a 40-year-old bottle of whisky; that is, if they can find the strong box in which he kept their names.

Old Will Peek—he was 89 when he died yesterday—kept that bottle on his mantle piece ever since he swore off the stuff, promising that only his palbearers would get it.

About 12 years ago the old hardware salesman, who said he was the first to go drumming up trade in the south in an automobile, bought himself a tombstone.

On it he had carved the slogan he used on his calling cards, "Peekaboo, I'll see you." For the rest of his epitaph, he had carved, "hardware salesman for — years." Only the number remains to be inscribed.

Cuba Offers Troops To Fight In Korea

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Minister of State Ernesto D'Elia says Cuba fully backs the United States proposal that the U. N. brand Communist China the aggressor in Korea and she will offer a company of troops to fight there.

D'Elia told a news conference last night that Cuba also will contribute 2,000 tons of sugar, 10,000 gallons of alcohol and an unlimited amount of blood plasma.

Rationing Order Unlikely; FBI To Enforce Freeze

in existence are on automobiles and hides. But plenty more orders are coming. Edward Phelps, assistant price director, said that within 30 days, most retailers and some wholesalers will be under new orders controlling their sales margins.

The freeze order does not apply to farm prices of live animals and other raw, unprocessed goods.

But certain foods, like beef, veal, lamb, and pork, come under the freeze—that is, the processor, the wholesaler, and the retailer must keep the price as it is, at least for the time being.

On most foods, however, prices can be raised, all the way to the consumer, whenever necessary to reflect a rise in the farmer's price. Some examples: Bread, eggs, poultry, fresh vegetables, peanuts, oranges.

A number of items are specifically exempted from price controls by the defense production act. For example, professional fees, insurance rates, freight and passenger rates, utility rates, real estate prices, and the prices of newspapers, books, magazines, motion pictures, theater tickets, and advertising rates charged by radio and television stations.

Stiff Fines Ordered
Rents are not controlled under this order, but many areas of the country are still under federal or state rent controls.

DiSalle said there are plenty of goods in this country, and rationing is not planned in the near future and maybe not at all.

For violating the price and wage orders, a person can be fined up to $10,000, imprisoned up to one year, or both. He is also liable to lawsuits.

DiSalle and Ching announced the freeze orders at a hastily called news conference in the old state department building, where Eric Johnston has his office.

There was fantastic confusion. The doors were left open and reporters plunged in and out, telephoning scraps of information to their offices. Photographers stood on chairs. The noise was so great that many reporters could not hear DiSalle and Ching.

Public Bewildered

At this time there were no copies of the orders available. So the scene shifted to "temporary building E," where the price and wage agencies are located. The corridors were thronged with newsmen. A force of 15 dog-tired people in the mimeograph room labored to produce copies of the orders. Two employees were reported to have collapsed while doing this work. The text was handed out in installments. There was a mob scene every time a new sheet of pages was brought out. Price experts were revising and rewriting parts of the order even as it was being issued.

Finally the last page of the formal price order was mimeographed shortly before 1 o'clock this morning. Officials gave up at that point and decided to issue an accompanying "statement of considerations" later today. These wild scenes were an apt climax to weeks of uncertainty on the part of officials and bewildering on the part of the public.

Issuance of the price freeze was reminiscent of April, 1942, when the OPA came out with a general freeze order. But at that time, the OPA had already issued nearly a hundred separate price ceiling orders on various products. This time the OPS is starting almost with a clear slate.

As for the wage freeze, Johnston insisted on getting it out simultaneously with the price order. The defense production act requires wage stabilization whenever there is price control.

FREEZE EXCEPTIONS
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The economic stabilization agency lists certain "exceptions and exemptions" in its order freezing prices. These include:

1. Prices or rentals for real property.
2. Rates or fees for professional services.
3. Prices or rentals for press association and feature service materials for publication; books, magazines, motion pictures, periodicals or newspapers.
4. Advertising rates of newspapers, radio and television stations, theaters and outdoor ad firms.
5. Insurance rates.
6. Commodity exchange margin requirements.
7. Rates charged by common carriers or other public utility.
8. Sales of used personal or household effects by a private owner.
9. Sales or deliveries of commodities made or produced by the seller at his home . . . "without the assistance of hired employees."
10. Any raw or unprocessed agricultural commodity when sold by its producer.

The exemptions in the agricultural field range from live animals, wool and cotton through seafood, game and hay to babassu kernels and whole oil.

Commercial exceptions range from stocks and bonds, through stamps and coins to Indian and Eskimo handicraft objects.

Hat Show Staggers Even A Hard-Bitten Columnist

By ROBERT RUARK

NEW YORK—Under the influence of something which may have been black magic, I found myself mired down in dames at a hat show not long ago. A fellow named Mr. John was hurling this or that for the semi-annual visitation of the fashion locusts from the provinces.

In what seems like an opium eater's dream, I keep recalling a flock of swishy females wearing creations called, "I'm in Love With A Wonderful Hat," "Devil In The Flesh," "Adam's Choice," "Where's the Cat?" and "Shot My First Phasant."

These last two adornments were typical of the feathers that the dames wore pointing straight out, right-angled sideways, or hanging down in front, giving the effect of a dejected rooster, and causing madame to appear slightly cross-eyed.

"Bird In Hand" But the thing that really murders my sleep is something Mr. John has waggishly entitled "Bird In Hand."

This has ended the haut style for me. "Bird In Hand" consists of no hat at all. The model merely carried what appeared to be a stuffed chicken under one arm. On that note, dammit, I quit.

We have put up a lot of nonsense from the ultra-chic dress-makers and the fancy chapeau confectors, but I claim a hat is not a hat unless you wear it on your head. So long as it complements the coiffeur it is a hat. When you carry it under one arm it does not enhance the bangs, keep off the rain, or perform any other function commonly expected of a hat.

Let us take a deep breath and plunge briefly back into ancient reality. What is a shoe? A shoe is worn on the feet. If you wear a shoe on your head, is it now a shoe or is it a hat? Shall we pervert the purpose of pants by wearing them as shoes, or switch the functions of hat to handbag? How deep can we dip into fantasy?

The Eyes Match Mr. John's business with the fowl under the arm is in keeping with a switch recently reported from Paris. Quote: "A man needn't be perturbed if his wife's eyes change from a lustrous brown to a dazzling green between breakfast and dinner. Or even from hazel to gray to blue. It's just that she's putting on the right eyes to match her dress, like earrings."

"Fashion leaders teamed up with scientists to produce a series of contact lenses to change the color of a woman's eyes. A complete set of colored eyes, not including red ones for hangovers, cost about $1,000."

It is too much to expect complete constancy in a female, where her garb is concerned, but it seems to me the least a man can demand is the same set of accusing eyes. It is bad enough to absorb the emotional shock of the hair change, to awake with a blonde when you went to sleep with a brunette, but I can think of nothing more unnerving than being pierced by a pair of beady browns when you are accustomed to the bloodshot baby blue over the coffee cup.

And from Hollywood: "A TV vest—sleeveless, V-necked, open to the waist, and worn with nothing underneath. 'Strip tease' ensembles, in some of which a girl can shed duster, top, overskirt, bolero and apron and still not hit bottom."

Ruark Is Too! Well, I tell you. When a seminaaked woman, wearing a stuffed rooster under one arm, walks in and blinks three separate colors of eye at me, I am going to follow the advice of the bra manufacturer who just predicted a big vogue for "rounded, more feminine" bosoms.

"The 'ice-cream cone' is out," he said. "I got news for you, girl. The 'ice-cream cone,' whatever that is, will be a good two furlongs behind me. The only difference is that the ice-cream cone will not be shrieking and tearing its hair."

The Prospect

A Four-Bedroom
Cape Cod

Rooms Seven
Bedrooms Four
Closets Eleven
Cubage 18,300 feet
Dimensions 32x26 feet

We must have a house with several bedrooms—and with plenty of closet space.

To meet this demand, now coming from many prospective builders, the Home of the Week Plan Service has designed "The Prospect," a Cape Cod variation which contains four good-sized bedrooms, 11 closets, and four tiers of built-in cupboard drawers for added storage space in the upstairs room.

For a family looking for an all-on-one-floor plan, this cottage would also suffice, for its upper floor could be left unfinished until a later date if budget limitations call for piecemeal construction.

Wing Gives Extra Floor Space
The house, with a wing at the right to give extra floor space to one of the first floor bedrooms, measures 32x26 feet. A lot with a 50-foot frontage would be adequate. The cubic content of the dwelling is 18,300 feet.

The house pictured was finished with painted clapboards and a black asphalt shingle roof, but the outside walls could be finished with shingles, painted or stained; or with brick or stone.

No garage plan is included, but a garage and breezeway could be placed on the left of the house if the size of the lot permits.

The small gable treatment over the front door, breaking the long cornice line; and the large living room window, centered under the upper left dormer window, give a pleasing distinction to the front.

Picture Window and Fireplace
The front entrance opens on a small hall with an arch at the left leading to a 14x13½-foot living room. The stairs to the second floor, with a coat closet at the right of the front hall closes off the front bedroom.

The picture window, and a fireplace centered in the other outside wall, are features of the living room. Corresponding with the archway to the front hall another arch, in the long inside wall of the living room looks into the 10x7½-foot dining room. Here built-in china cabinets flank a window at the rear.

A two-way swinging door connects dining room and kitchen. This latter is a 10x8½-foot room, well planned, with the refrigerator tucked in between two closets; the range placed at the end of an L-shaped working counter. A door with glazed top panel opens from the kitchen to a service entry, on the side of the house.

Hall Leads to Two Bedrooms
Across the dining room from the kitchen door is another door to a small L-shaped rear hall leading to the two bedrooms. A storage closet, a linen closet and the bathroom open off this hall. The cellar stairway descends from the dining room, closed off behind a door.

Each of the first floor bedrooms has a large closet and windows on two sides.

In the full basement, the furnace is under the living room, and laundry equipment under the kitchen. This arrangement leaves the rest of the cellar free for any use the owners may wish to make of it.

On the second floor the stairs land in a short hall. Bedroom doors are at right and left of this hall, and a lavette is between the bedrooms. Each bedroom measures 13x12 feet; has windows on three sides, and built-in drawers tucked into the front eaves. The room at the left has two large closets; the one on the right, one.

This house should be fully insulated, with ventilating louvers in the gable ends. A site facing from northeast to southwest is recommended.

Complete plans and specifications for "The Prospect" and other houses in this series are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 15, Daily Press, and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

U. S. Brings 4-H Clubs To Austrian Farm Youth

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Four young Austrians sat on the bed in an undersized New York hotel room, looking out of place in their Tyrolean costumes. They were part of a group of 12 Austrian 4-H Club members touring the U. S.

"To me," said ruddy-cheeked Anna Grennwallner, 16, "the most best thing of 4-H was when we vote for our own officer. Nobody tell us who is our leader. We make our own leader."

After an exposure of a little over two years, Austria's farm youth is apparently learning more from 4-H than just the best way to raise chickens, although the practical things are still important.

Anna was typical of the group. She shook hands with a firm grip and a little bow and she spoke English with great courage but little knowledge. But there was a grave sincerity that accompanied everything she had to say about how 4-H was changing things back home near Salzburg.

"The 4-H," she said slowly, "give us chickens. We got 30 Hampshire and Rodlund (she meant New Hampshire Reds and Rhode Island Reds) chickens. They made first eggs on the same day we have a fair."

The other three, Josef Mosser, Alexander Haas and Hilda Dornick, laughed at that.

"We think that is very nice of those chicken," Anna continued.

The four of them consulted on every question, talking German among themselves. Then one of them, usually Josef, would answer.

They had been brought over to the U. S. as a technical assistance team by the ECA, to study American farming methods in a six-week tour. Besides farming, they'd had a chance to study some other things—like square-dancing and basketball games.

But it was the American farms that made the deepest impression on them.

"They are so large," said Josef, after a conference. "At home there is nothing that big. Most big farm we have is, I guess, maybe 50-60 acres."

"To me," said Anna, looking straight ahead, "the most best thing on American farm is how women do not work in fields. They have machines in kitchen, but they don't work in fields anyhow. That's very nice."

The four were full of statistics about the 4-H movement in Austria. There are 820 clubs, 21,350 members. Of that number, about 10,000 are in the Russian Zone.

Through the ECA and the Brethren's Service Committee, the clubs have gotten gifts. Some, like Anna's, got chickens. Some in the orchard belt got apple trees. Others got toys.

Some places, the clubs are called 4-H, although the American "Head, Heart, Hand and Health" doesn't translate accurately into German. In other places, the clubs have local names. But they're all modeled after the U. S. 4-H, as explained by ECA officials in Austria who started the idea.

The officials decided that working through the farm youth was the best way to get Austrian farmers to adopt better production methods. And the 4-H plan, under which each child has an individual project such as a flock of chickens, has brought results. Some farmers have begun copy-

Question: What causes lacquer to 'blush'?

Answer: Sometimes in spraying lacquer, a white blemish or blush appears on the surface, usually caused in warm weather by the use of a fast evaporating thinner. You should use the thinner recommended by the manufacturer.

Trojans Whip Broncos, 53-35

St. Joseph high school cagers are getting back into high gear again.

Last night they rolled up a 53-35 score against Bark River and undoubtedly could have made the count even larger if they had wanted. Early in the fourth period, their margin over the Broncos was 26 points after which Bark River scored 17 points to only nine for St. Joseph.

Pete Kutches, playing "in the slot," netted 18 points and Don Paulin, playing his usual classy game under the basket, scored 15 to lead the Trojan scoring.

Paul Thibault got 18 points for Nahma, Cornelius Sochay and Orville Larscheid got 17 each to lead the high scoring attack.

Individual honors, however, went to Cooks' Keith Cutler who netted 23 points on 10 field goals and three free throws.

Cooks made a game of it for a half, holding Nahma to a four point margin at the halfway mark but Nahma pulled ahead easily in the third quarter.

Nahma reserves won their ninth game, defeating Cooks, 44-26.

Hoosiers Seek Sixth Straight

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana, the Big Ten's only undefeated basketball team, shoos for its sixth straight victory tonight in one of three conference games.

The Hoosiers take on a determined Minnesota quint at Bloomington in a contest the Gophers must win to remain in contention for the title.

But the Gophers tumbled in the standings earlier this week when Iowa beat them on their home floor in Minneapolis, their second loss in five games.

Northwestern, tied with Minnesota for fourth place, will meet winless Purdue at Evanston in a second league game. The third conference tilt pits Michigan State against Ohio State at Columbus.

The Buckeyes, defending champions, have suffered five straight setbacks and will be opposing the league's best defensive team. The Spartans, who are in eighth place with a 2-3 record, have an average yield of 48.3 points.

Illinois and Wisconsin, the league's second and third place teams respectively, will be idle for another week. The Illini, with one loss in six games, resume competition on Feb. 5 against Purdue.

The Badgers, with a 4-1 mark, play Minnesota a week from tonight.

Iowa, in sixth place with a .500 rating on a 3-3 record, will get back into play until Feb. 5 when Northwestern goes to Iowa City. Michigan, in eighth place with one win in six games, will be idle until Feb. 10 when it meets the Wildcats at Evanston.

Tech Puckmen Finally Win One

HOUGHTON (AP)—Michigan Tech's hockey victory famine ended at an end today when the Huskies posted a 4-3 win over visiting St. Thomas of St. Paul, Minn.

Tech, which had lost six decisions in a row, had to go into overtime to win this one. Ray Puro's second goal of the evening at 4:55 of the extra time was the deciding marker.

Joe De Bastiani and Lloyd Rautiola got the other Michigan Tech scores.

Hennessey, son of Cal Hennessey, popular Garden high school star of years back. Hennessey split the lacing for 13 points. Joe LaVigne, a lanky sophomore, added nine points to Bark River's cause.

The game was notable for its scarcity of fouls, only eight being called on St. Joseph and 11 on Bark River.

The win was St. Joseph's ninth in 11 games this season. For Bark River, it was the eleventh defeat in twelve games.

In the preliminary, the St. Joseph reserves won, 34-19. Between halves of the main game, grade teams from St. Joseph and Escanaba put on an exhibition.

Ishpeming Trounces Gladstone By 53-27

ISHPEMING—The heralded "basketball classic of the year" between the class B and C champs of last year turned out to be a rout.

Ishpeming cagers chalked up with twenty-first victory in a row here last night with comparative ease against Gladstone, last year's class C champs. The final score was 53 to 27.

The scoring battle between Terrible Terry Thompson of Ishpeming and Phil Creten of Gladstone was 18 to 11.

his own way all evening, dropping in 12 field goals and one free throw for 25 points—almost as much as the whole Gladstone team scored all evening. Creten, on the other hand, got only two field goals and three free throws for 7 points.

The Ishpeming defense was well nigh impenetrable, holding Gladstone to a mere seven field goals. Ishpeming, on the other hand, was dropping in 23 at the same time.

"One thing is sure—I want to make sure we get a good harvest of high school football stars—this and every year. I want some power boys but I also want some runners."

"I'm going to keep on with the type of football I have been teaching until it's proved to me that it's not successful."

Fessler arrived yesterday for a four-day visit to confer with Minnesota officials and to get acquainted with the football squad, with which he has an appointment at 3:30 p. m., Monday.

Optimistic about the future, Fessler injected a warning that it should be remembered that "I'll be a freshman coach with a freshman team when the 1951 season opens."

One of the objects of his visit was to confer with the assistant Gopher coaches. He plans on bringing to Minnesota Lyle Clark, line coach at Ohio State, and Dick Fisher, backfield coach, but has no plans for filling out the rest of the staff.

Cloverland Five Plays Kingsford

Cloverland quintet will play the Kingsford Druggs at Kingsford tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The following players will meet tonight at 6:30 at the Cue and Cushion: Tom Martineau, Wayne Boucher, Ray Oseen, Joe Freidgen, Joe Aiken, Phil LeGault and Rogers Williams.

Last Sunday the collegians lost to the Marquette Legion, 60-47.

The Marquette Redskins are in town today.

Coach Stan Sosnouski's high scoring Gravelle basketball team provides the opposition for the Eskymos at the junior high school at 8:30 in a game that the Eskymos hope will start them back on the victory trail.

The locals have been showing gradual improvement in recent games and, if they're "on" tonight, may possibly trip the fast traveling boys from Marquette. However, if they do stop the Redskins, they'll have to be at their peak because Coach Sosnouski's outfit has plenty of class.

Prelim At 7

Their latest conquest is a 76-57 victory over a good Negaunee team. Other victims include Escanaba (by 51-29), Munising, Sault Ste. Marie, Newberry and Bessemer. They have lost only to Ishpeming, Ironwood and Calumet, three of the peninsula's top teams.

Top men on the team include Carl and Neil Nystrom, Lanky Jim Schneider, Frank Young, Bob Redman and Wayne Brigran.

Coach Steve Baltic probably will stick with his usual starting lineup of Tom Smith and Paul Baldwin at forwards, Dick Shomin at center and JoJo Johnston and Jim Heiden guards. They will be backed up on the bench by Paul Baldwin, Dick and John Peterson, Jim Timms and Nick Prokos.

A preliminary game will start at 7 o'clock.

Howard Stiehm of Marinette and Fred Vescolani of Carney will officiate.

Rapid River Whips Powers By 57 To 41

POWERS—Rapid River and Powers played on fairly even terms for the first three quarters here last night but Rapid River put on a 16-point scoring burst in the final period to win going away, 57-41.

Dale Gibson, a clever ball handler, sparked the Rapid River attack with 21 points. Five other Rapid River players scored from four to 10 points to add to the total.

Ernest Della Costa led the Powers scoring with 18 points.

In the preliminary, the Powers grades got revenge by beating the visitors, 30 to 26.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother,
Wilhelmina Miller, who passed away
three years ago, January 27, 1948.

Surrounded by friends we are lonely.
In the midst of joy we are blue,
Beneath a smile we've a heartache,
Lending dear mother for you.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss you,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say.
God alone knows how we miss you.
In a home that is lonesome today.

Sadly missed by

THE CHILDREN.

Eyes Are Offered
To Blind Official

CAIRO—An Egyptian law student has offered his eyes to replace those of Education Minister Taha Hussein Pasha, who has been totally blind since early childhood.

The student is Abdel Hadi Hel-kal, who is enrolled at Egyptian University's School of Law. Friends of the blind minister say the offer probably will be turned down with thanks. A similar offer came from a Spanish student during the minister's recent trip through Europe.

Taha Hussein Pasha is Egypt's most prominent writer and scholar despite his handicap. His crusade to spread education in Egypt has won him great popular support.

Purchase Home Before Stocks

Financial Advice Given By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Have just telephoned an important brokerage house in New York City to ask its opinion on the stock market. The reply was: "We guess the market is finally getting high enough for the public to buy."
The Dow-Jones industrial averages struck a high of 381 in 1929; they fell to 41 in 1932; they rose to 194 in 1937; fell again to 93 in 1942; rose again to 212 in 1946, from which they declined until a few months ago. They are now around 245, the high for 20 years; but this statement applies to only 30 stocks out of over 1,000 stocks. Many good stocks are now selling for less than they did in 1946, or earlier. Many people say: "All stocks have gone up except those which I hold. What is the reason?" The truth is just the reverse of this. Only a very few stocks are selling at their "20-year highs."

All the above causes the wisest investors to be neither bullish nor bearish just now. They believe stocks are good for income, but not for speculation. The stock market is very selective and the war outlook is very uncertain—either way. We are now doing right to prepare actively for World War III, but it may not come for years. Our hurried preparations may be useless.

What Mr. Hoover Believes
Mr. Hoover apparently believes that, unless there is a revolution in Russia, all of Europe—war or no war—may, for a period of years, try Communism and that no World War III can prevent it. He also thinks that the Russians now have no intention of striking North or South America unless we attack Russia. He believes we should now avoid war and concentrate on strengthening the United States militarily, economically and spiritually until the Europeans unite and shown an enthusiasm to fight Communism. Under this Hoover Policy our markets should hold up.

If we should get into war with Russia and one or more of our cities are bombed, the stock exchanges would be closed to prevent financial panic. Everything—securities, commodities, rents, banks and wages—would be frozen. We would be ruled by a dictator and stocks would go down. Those who expect war should not buy stocks—certainly not unless they are very carefully selected by experts. Inflation, however, should help a few stocks.

Stocks Vs. Homes
Certainly, anyone who does not own a house and an acre of land in a safe country village, should make such his first investment—war or no war. Many such places—well located, with water, fuel and neighbors—can be purchased today for one-third what it would cost to build them. I'm not advising their purchase for immediate occupancy; but for insurance and security.

Next, keep healthy, have a good bank account and a job which will give you a living. If you are dependent partly on investment income, then buy a very broad list of 30 stocks which have paid dividends for many years and which should give you about 5 per cent. If your local bank is unable to supply you with such a list, the bank can send to me at 270 Washington Street, Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, and I will freely send a list to the bank for you.

Bing Crosby Says His Success Is Due To Mother's Prayers

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Bing Crosby has disclosed that his success is due to his mother's prayers. "If I've been lucky—and I certainly have been—inordinately lucky—I think you have to attribute it to the efficacy of prayer," the millionaire crooner said in a tape-recorded radio interview.

The interview, one of a series on

Tax Diversion Act Changes Opposed By Supervisors

LANSING — (AP) — Opposition to any change in the present sales tax diversion law was expressed by the state's county supervisors. Fred Searl of Grand Rapids, newly-elected president, said there was a move to take away the cut of the sales tax money going to the townships.

"Some people in state government seem to think it's a crime to have enough money on hand so you don't have to go into the red," Searl said. "They apparently want the smaller units of government to get into deficit financing—the way the state operates."

Money Used Wisely
"It's hard to convince some people that the townships are not rolling in wealth. They are not blowing away the sales tax money foolishly but are using it wisely and well."

Searl quoted figures which he said showed the 1,266 townships had $13,922,000 on hand at the end of the last fiscal year. He said this was less than they had at the start of the fiscal year—proving they are not rolling up a huge surplus.

Other resolutions approved by the supervisors included those: Opposing the establishment of a compulsory health insurance plan now before Congress.

Supporting the package "good roads" program now before the legislature including a two cent hike in the gas tax.

Asking that tax delinquent land revert to the counties instead of to the state conservation department.

Asking that the severance tax of two cents a barrel on oil be split between the state and the counties.

Providing that one member of draft boards serving rural areas be chosen from the rural area.

Ballot Change Favored
Favoring the present Jan. 1 tax date for making assessments.

Recommending that the present law with respect to liens on the property of old age assistance recipients remain unchanged.

Opposing the seating in the legislature of any person convicted of a felony.

Endorsing the reorganization of state government for increased efficiency but opposing taking from the people the right to elect state officials.

Proposing the amendment of the election laws to provide for the printing of candidates of both political parties on the same side of the primary ballot.

Favoring legislation to make federal social security benefits available to township officers.

Searl, the newly elected president, succeeds Jesse T. Smith of Evart. Alfred R. Bartz of Stevensville was named first vice president and William Boezwinkle of Pearson was elected first vice president. Jacob Schepers of East Lansing was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Fred Yeip of Houghton was reelected chairman of the board of directors and Dave Young of Saginaw was reelected to the board.

HINT TO MOTORISTS

Get the habit of watching the ammeter closely and it may save a great deal of inconvenience. If it fails to work, it is quite possible the generator may be burned out.

"Sold the first day" said Jones the occasion of his 20th anniversary as a star, was made with William Tusher, American Broadcasting Company Hollywood commentator. It will be aired Sunday night over ABC.

"Ever since I was a little boy she prayed for all of us daily and had masses said for us and rosaries," Crosby said. "The nuns up in our parish (Spokane, Wash.) are a cloistered order. She used to take them meals and take their laundry out for them and do all kinds of things. And they always prayed for me and for the family."
